

Professor David Crompton OAM

Executive Director, Metro South Addictions and Mental Health Services, Brisbane

David worked in private practice as a rural general practitioner prior to commencing psychiatry training and spending 12 years in private psychiatry practice. David is a Professor within the School of Health Service and Social Work and holds academic titles with the University of Queensland and Queensland University of Technology. He has held leadership roles in Queensland Health and New South Wales Health and is the coordinator for the Centre for Neuroscience, Recovery and Mental Health. He was awarded a Medal of the Order of Australia for development of community based mental health services for veterans, development of community post-traumatic stress disorder and anxiety and substance abuse treatment services. David's research interest includes the impact of trauma and natural disasters, suicide and factors that influence recovery of individuals with mental illness.

Innovation in Community based Treatment Programs

12:30 PM, Thursday, 3rd March 2016
Seminar Room, Herchel Smith Building for Brain and Mind Sciences (Department of Psychiatry, Cambridge University)

The Challenges of Recovery Focused Service Change in Brisbane: Barriers and Facilitators

04:30 PM, Thursday, 3rd March 2016
Room Lab 307, Anglia Ruskin Cambridge Main Campus

Impact of Clinical Transformation on Care, Consumer Satisfaction and Staff Culture

01:30 PM, Friday, 4th March 2016
Seminar Room, Cavell Centre, Peterborough

Mental Health Services for Veterans

02:15 PM, Friday, 4th March 2016
Seminar Room, Cavell Centre, Peterborough

www.promise.global

© 2016 PROMISE

For more information: promise@cpft.nhs.uk